

Per Molander

Partner

Per Molander heads the firm's Environmental practice group in Stockholm and works exclusively with environmental law and real estate law. His clients are primarily large and medium-sized industrial companies with production facilities that need environmental testing at regular intervals. In addition to the environmental assessments, Mr Molander also works quite a lot with handling of various environmental risks in conjunction with commercial transactions, like for instance purchase or sales of companies or properties, initial public offerings, etc. It is of the essence to, in a short time, identify and evaluate the environmental risks and then assist the client in its business negotiations as regards distributing the risks in a manner that is to the advantage of the client.
